Bald Rock National Park rewards bushwalkers with an expansive panoramic view unequalled in the New England Region. 260m above the surrounding bushland, Bald Rock is a massive granite dome 750m long and 500m wide. Come up and discover the magic of the largest exposed granite monolith in the Southern Hemisphere. At close to 1300 metres above sea level, it feels like a remote 'top of the world' experience.

Choose from the gentle 2.5km climb to the summit, winding through granite arches and fern gullies, or challenge yourself with a short, but steep climb up the face of the rock. At the summit, collections of granite archways, scattered boulders, ravines roping their way through the terrain and a group of enormous smooth granite stones balancing strangely across each other all await exploration.

(Road from Tenterfield to Bald Rock National Park is sealed)
BOONOO BOONOO NATIONAL PARK

Pronounced ‘bunna bunoo’, this woodland park has spectacular river and gorge scenery. Swim and camp beside the river and explore secluded rockpools. Head to the lookout and watch as the Boonoo Boonoo River cascades over the granite cliff edge, plunging 210m into the gorge below. As you explore the park, be sure to visit Morgan’s Gully, a fascinating area that marks the site of an old goldfield from the 1890s.

(13km unsealed road to Boonoo Boonoo Falls, 2WD accessible)

BASKET SWAMP NATIONAL PARK

Explore Basket Swamp Falls, pack a picnic and head to Timbarra Lookout or visit Woolool Wooloolni Aboriginal Place. This waterlogged park of 200ha of heath and sedges cleans, stores and slowly releases water into local creeks and the Clarence River. Although minimal picnic facilities in the National Park, the adjoining Boonoo State Forest has picnic and bush camping facilities.

(Unsealed road, 4WD recommended)

GIRRAWEEN NATIONAL PARK

Located across the border in Queensland, Girraween is a park of massive granite outcrops, creeks and waterways and precariously balanced boulders. Spectacular wildflower displays splash colour amongst the granite in spring.

(Road is sealed)

TOOLOOM NATIONAL PARK

The extensive subtropical rainforest and red gum of World Heritage Tooloom provides habitat for the most diverse kangaroo and wallaby population in Australia, and offers a picnic area and two short walking tracks. Tooloom Lookout offers superb scenic views over the Great Dividing Range, or walk through the amazing natural environment of lush rainforest, Tooloom Scrub and strangler figs.

(Road is sealed)

TORRINGTON STATE RECREATION AREA

Dry forests, woodlands, scenic rocky outcrops, balancing boulders, gorges, swamps, creeks and wildflowers provide the perfect spot for bushwalking, birdwatching, fossicking and 4WDing. On granite terrain, Torrington has over 400 different plants, 37 of which are rare/threatened. See dramatic 360° views of the surrounding tablelands at Thunderbolt’s Lookout, let your imagination run away on the Mystery Face walk or try your luck fossicking in the creek near Blatherarm campground.

(Unsealed road, 2WD accessible, 4WD recommended in wet weather)

KOREELAH NATIONAL PARK

Pockets of World Heritage listed rainforest hug the steep slopes below the Acacia Plateau. Enjoy easy walking, remote camping and fantastic birdwatching. You might be lucky enough to see the endangered double-eyed fig parrot, eastern bristle bird or black-striped wallaby. Take a stroll along the rocky gorge and spend the afternoon swimming in natural pools and spotting wildlife.

(Unsealed road, 2WD accessible)
FISHING
The region offers plenty of opportunities for fishing enthusiasts. Tenterfield Creek holds Yellow Belly and Cod, and there are a number of access points to the west of town, including Deadman’s Reserve (14km west). The Mole and Dumaresq Rivers hold Yellow Belly, Cod and Catfish. Glenlyon Dam (QLD) has Murray Cod, Yellow Belly, Silver Perch, Spangled Perch and Eel-tailed Catfish. To the east, the Clarence River holds bass, catfish and mullet, as well as Eastern Cod (must be returned).

A fishing license is required for NSW (available in Tenterfield) and Glenlyon Dam (available at the camping grounds). Closed season for Murray Cod is 1 September to 30 November.

GOLF & BOWLS
Tee off on one of the finest country courses in Australia and indulge in 360° views from all parts of the 18-hole course. The irrigated, undulating fairways and superb bentgrass greens make the Tenterfield Golf Course a dream course all year round. Particularly picturesque in autumn, there’s time to savour the surrounds as the course is rarely crowded. For the keen bowler, Tenterfield Bowling Club offers two well-kept bowling greens, available for both competitive and social games.

MT MACKENZIE SCENIC DRIVE
This short drive offers an opportunity to see some of the spectacular granite formations found throughout the district, including Doctors Nose, Small Bald Rock, Mole River District and Draining Rock. The drive arrives at the Mt Mackenzie Lookout, which offers great views of Tenterfield and the surrounding district. (Unsealed road, 2WD accessible)

NATIONAL TRAIL
Australia’s Bicentennial National Trail is a 5330km self-reliant trekking route through Australian bush, wilderness and mountain areas, and is suitable for horse-riding, walking and mountain biking. The National Trail traverses rugged remote country east of the Great Dividing Range and Tenterfield, following the Demon Fault line.

GOLF & BOWLS
Tenterfield & District has hundreds of 4WD tracks which cater for all levels of enthusiasts. Trails take visitors through creeks, gorges and valleys, past rivers and rocky outcrops, and over mountains. Soft off-road adventures take visitors to the Rocky River, Mole River, Boorook, Boonoo Boonoo, Torrington, Urbenville, Liston and Legume. For the more adventurous, there are a number of trails around Torrington, Basket Swamp and Girard Forest (take note of signs). 4WD parks in the region offer visitors medium to challenging tracks.

SETTLEMENT
Tenterfield was named by S.A. Donaldson, one of the first settlers in the area, after his aunts’ home in Haddington, Scotland. The first legal title was granted to R.R. Mackenzie for Tenterfield Station in 1842, and the Tenterfield Post Office opened in 1849. The township was gazetted in 1851, making it one of the oldest towns in the New England, with allotments being sold in 1854. In 1858, gold was discovered at Fairfield (now Drake), and shortly afterwards at Timbarra and Boono Boono. In 1870 the population was less than 900, but the town had five hotels, a school of arts and three churches. The railway opened to Tenterfield in 1886, and in 1888 to Wallangarra, linking Sydney and Brisbane by rail for the first time.

WORLD WAR II
During World War II, up to 10,000 troops were trained in jungle warfare at local camps, including the London Bridge Army Camp, before being sent to New Guinea and the Pacific. Tenterfield also formed a strategic line of defence, with the installation of Tank Traps (timber posts and concrete triangles) along the Mt Lindesay Highway and Paddy’s Flat Road. These were to be the second line of defence if an invasion occurred in the northern part of Australia, and can still be seen today.

COLOURFUL CHARACTERS
Tenterfield has been home to a variety of legends over the years. Born in Tenterfield, Peter Allen, one of Australia’s most acclaimed entertainers, will be forever connected through the “Tenterfield Saddler”. Gary Shearston, popular Aussie folk singer, lived in Tenterfield and recorded a number of songs about the area. Solicitor J.F. Thomas, who owned the local paper, defended Harry “Breaker” Morant in the Boer War in 1902. Well known poet Banjo Paterson came to Tenterfield and married his sweetheart, Miss Alice Walker. Dr Teddy Hon, born in Tenterfield, developed the Hon Heart Machine to monitor the heartbeat of unborn children. Then there were the rebels who became part of Australian folklore, such as Captain Thunderbolt & the Wilson Gang.

INDIGENOUS ANCESTRY
Tenterfield Shire was first inhabited by two language groups – the Bunjalung and Jukembal. In the colder months, the Bunjalung from the Boonoo Boono area went further east, down to Boorook, as it was lower and warmer. The Jukembal, whose territory straddled the Great Dividing Range from near Glen Innes to Stanthorpe, went further west. There are many significant sites within the Shire, including bora rings, scar trees, Bluff Rock and Woolool Wooloolni.

TENTERFIELD SADDLER
Immortalised in song by Peter Allen, the old ceilings wear 130 years of tobacco stains, wooden floors are patched with scraps of leather and visitors can see the working conditions of 100 years ago first hand. For 50 years this quaint blue-granite Saddlery was a key meeting place in town, where Saddler George Woolnough plied his trade, listening but undisturbed by the chatter and opinions of those who wandered in.

TENTERFIELD CORK TREE
Brought over from England in a jam tin and planted in 1861, the historic Cork Tree is believed to be one of the largest in Australia, and is still growing. Known as the Wishing Tree in English Folklore, it is believed to be surrounded with a strange power to bring good luck to those who walk around the tree three times and make a wish. The Cork Tree can be found at 107 Wood Street.

TENTERFIELD is surrounded by Jennings and Liston to the north, Legume and Urbenville to the north-east, Drake to the east, Torrington to the south and Mingoola to the west.

During the late 1880s, areas such as Boonoo Boonoo, Willsons Downfall and Sandy Hills boomed as part of the mining industry. Gold was discovered in Drake in 1858, tin in Torrington in 1881 and Liston was the centre of a busy silver and tin mining industry. Towns grew to include hotels, stores, butchers, bakers, cafes, post offices, boarding houses, churches, blacksmiths and police stations. Torrington still has large deposits of topaz and semi-precious gemstones, and today mining has given way to fossicking. The waterways near Drake also provide popular spots to try your hand at panning for gold.

Jennings (NSW) and Wallangarra (QLD) are divided by the state border, and as the railway break-of-gauge have welcomed many an interesting character. Sir Henry Parkes and the Prince of Wales both had to disembark and change trains here. The railway station has been beautifully restored and includes a Heritage Museum and the chance to ‘stand in two states’.

Although village life may have quietened down, there is still plenty to do and plenty of places to relax, unwind and enjoy nature. Camping, swimming, fishing, canoeing, bushwalking, 4WDing – it’s all possible in the villages of Tenterfield. In Liston, Undercliffe Falls descends 150 metres over a 30 metre wide rock face, into a deep pool which is ideal for swimming. South-west of Urbenville, Tooloom Falls is a great spot for swimming, camping and picnics. Between Urbenville and Drake, fish, swim and explore the WWII Tank Traps at Paddy’s Flat. From Tenterfield to Drake, the Rocky River Scenic Drive (4WD recommended) meanders through granite terrain and farmlands and over stunning mountain scenery.

The Rocky River is just that and offers a great picnic and camping spot 35km south of Drake. Mingoola provides access to Glenlyon Dam – a great spot for water sports and fishing (the tourist park has full facilities), and Sundown National Park – a rugged wilderness area of spectacular sharp ridges and steep-sided gorges.

For history buffs, the Pioneer Cottage and Historical Museum in Urbenville presents displays relating to the town and district, as well as the timber industry. Built in 1892, the cottage was relocated to Urbenville in 1977. The museum is open the 1st & 3rd Sunday or by appointment.

After a day of sightseeing, kick back, relax and enjoy a cold drink, hearty meal and warm country hospitality in a country pub. The Jennings Hotel is the only pub on the QLD/NSW border and the Crown Hotel in Urbenville is always a favourite stopover.

Hope to see you there soon!
